A Word from the President

At the General Assembly in Tallinn, Patrick Madigou from France has been elected president of the CEP. For the first time in the CEP digital newsletter, the successor of John Scott, president over the past six years, addresses to the members of the CEP. "According to the expectations that were put forward in Tallinn, the Board of the CEP will focus its actions on three different fields." Read more >>

CEP in progress: Board Meeting results

From 30th of November until the 1st of December, the new CEP Board convened for the first time, and with immediate result. Only two months after the General Assembly, it clearly remembered the wish of the CEP members that the CEP should communicate more about the items it is working on. Decisively the Board took the initiative to report on its meetings in the CEP newsletter. Noblesse oblige: here's an overview of the items discussed at the 63rd Board Meeting. Read more >>

Estonia: Uniting Prison and Probation Service

Since the independence in 1991, the Estonian society is constantly evolving, and quickly. In order to meet the need of developing effective ways of working with offenders, the Estonian Ministry of Justice decided to unite the prison and probation service. Rait Kuuse, Head of the Division of social rehabilitation, from the Prison department of The Estonian Ministry of Justice, reports.

Conference Neuchâtel overbooked / Preview workshop Glasgow

Working with evidence based practice is hot in European probation. That conclusion can be drawn from the fact that even before the closing date for registration, the CEP conference on 'What works' was overbooked. Let's hope the registration for the Glasgow workshop will be as successful as in Neuchâtel!
