

Transferring Probation Across the EU

A Guide for Persons Under Probation Supervision

Transfer your probation to your home EU Member State.

If you are sentenced to probation or another community sanction, while you are staying in another European country, it is possible to apply to have your sentence transferred to your home country. However, this is only possible if your home country is an EU Member State.

Your probation officer can guide you through the application process and help you take the next steps.

For more information about the EU regulations on transferring probation and community sanctions, visit the Confederation of European Probation website: www.cep-probation.org

